Topic : Advice for Good Manners

It's important for us to have good manners. If we behave well, people will think we are good children. I am going to suggest some ways to behave well.

Good manners start at home. We should always help our family. We should do our homework and housework. We should be independent and respect our family. It's very important to spend our time with our family. If we don't, not only will we lose our relationships, our families will argue with us. Bad children are mean to their family and are lazy and dependent. Our family will be proud of us if we are good at home.

If you have finished the first step to being a good child, then do the second step in order to behave well. We should always speak politely to people in public places. We should arrive on time for the movie. Otherwise, we'll be late for the movie and block the view for some people at the cinema, We should also eat quietly at the restaurant. At the bus stop, we should be waiting patiently for the bus. We shouldn't be impolite to the helper at the tuck shop. They sell food for us at the tuck shop. We should be thankful. We should help the world.

The world all should respect one another. We should always help people in need. If we are nice or rude to people, people will be the same to us.
