Advice on Future Career

Dear Cyrus,

I want to give you some advice about what you can be when you grow up.

You can be a PE teacher when you grow up because you are good at sports. If you become a PE teacher, you will teach students and take care of them. You need to be patient and hard-working so that the students will love PE lessons and they will concentrate well.

You can also be a doctor when you grow up because you are clever and kind. If you become a doctor, you will cure sick people. You need to be caring and patient so that you can treat patients well and they will be happy.

I hope your hard work pays off and all your dreams will come true.

Yours,

Katie
