Advice on Future Career

Dear Cyrus,

I want to give you some advice about what you can be when you grow up.

You can be a flight attendant when you grow up because you can speak more than three languages. You will travel around the world. You need to be kind and attentive so that you can serve customers on planes.

You can also be an athlete when you grow up because you are good at sports. You will do lots of training. You need to be strong and hard-working so that you can easily win an Olympic medal.

I hope your hand work pays off and all your dreams will come true.

Yours,

Esme
